Q & A: Assessment & Progress Monitoring

Edward J. Kame'enui

Professor and Director,
Institute for Development of Educational Achievement,
University of Oregon

Dr. Edward J. Kame'enui currently directs the following federally funded centers: The Western Regional Reading First Technical Assistance Center, which provides assistance to 23 western states, American Samoa, and the Bureau of Indian Affairs for the implementation of the Reading First Initiative; the Oregon Reading First Center, which provides technical assistance to the Reading First school districts in Oregon; and Project CIRCUITS, a national reading research center designed to examine a three-tiered prevention model for beginning reading problems.

Dr. Kame'enui has published numerous college textbooks on topics related to teaching reading, curriculum design, and managing classroom behavior. He has also published research articles in Reading Research Quarterly, Scientific Studies of Reading, American Educational Research Journal, and the Journal of Learning Disabilities. He also served on the advisory boards for the PBS television show "Between the Lions" and WETA's "Reading Rockets."

Presentation topics

<x-charset iso-8859-1>Ed and Deb,

This is helpful. I'm so sorry we weren't able to connect by phone yesterday.
I appreciate that you tried several times. I do feel that I was able to address the questions Kathy Costello had without the benefit of conversation with the two of you. I would still like to chat a little about this meeting.
Maybe we can spend a few minutes talking about when we have our conference
call on the 3rd. Thanks.

Nancy

P.S. No response from Joe yet about meeting on the 13th. I may try to reach him via email today.

Susanne has heard back from the "higher-ups." Deb should plan on attending the meeting as well. Will you let her know or should I? Joan will handle the arrangements as usual.

<x-flowed>I found out why Susan was upset, at the meeting. She regards the two of you so very very highly that being an author is quite possibly a conflict of interest in terms of leading national professional development for RP.
The reason I know this is that Chris frantically tried to reach me over the week end, at her request. We should talk by phone when convenient.

Marcy: Thank you for sending this to me. Unfortunately, my ethics agreement with the U.S. Department of Education prohibits me from reviewing these materials while I am serving as Commissioner for the National Center for Special Education Research (NCSER). As you know, my commitment and service as Commissioner ends July 1, 2007, and at that time, I will return to my position at the University of Oregon. Thank you. All the best, Ed

Good afternoon Deb, Sharon, and Ed,

I hope you had a wonderful holiday with some extended time off to relax with family. I'm emailing with some urgency and concern regarding the review of Reading Street completed by Russell Gersten's group. We have received the reviews for 1st and 2nd grade using the Consumer's Guide, and 4th grade using the FCRR guidelines. Unfortunately, the ratings are not as high as we expected. In some cases, the Scott Foresman editorial team completely disagreed with the ratings. Before we proceed any further with the review, I'm hoping that you can look at the documents attached and provide your feedback. I'm scheduled to speak with Russell and his team on January 16th. I promised that I would provide a written response outlining our points of disagreement to their ratings by January 9th.

In addition to the checklist rating sheet, Russell and group provided us with a summary of their feedback by grade level. I have also attached these documents for your review.

Please let me know if it is possible to provide your comments by January 9th. I'm sorry for the tight deadline, we were hoping to have the review completed by February 2nd and I do not want to proceed further without clarifying our points of disagreement with the first round of review.

Thank you, I look forward to hearing from you. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to Thanks so much for the response. My view was that they were criticism the tool because some people were using it for something it wasn't intended to be use for.

Well we will straighten it out in due time and I look forward to you getting you back in Oregon so we can work more closely.

Take good care of yourself and I hope to see you soon.

Paul: What a treat it is to hear from you. I've been meaning to catch up with you now that I have gained clearance from the department's ethics attorneys to engage in discussions with Pearson re. my transition back to Oregon, etc. So, should we set up a time to chat? I am puzzled by Sam's characterization also, however, in the context of this particular article written as a letter to the editor in the WA Post, I find the interpretation suspect. Nonetheless, it would be worthy of a follow up with Sam. All the best, Ed

It's been way to long since we have had a chance to talk or visit. I will sure be glad when you're back in a role where we can at least visit occasionally. I was surprised by this little blurb in our Daily News Clips and wondered on what basis Sam has problems with the DIBELS which we have felt has been so effective.

Hope you are doing well and still enjoying your work and maybe we will have a chance to see each other soon.

Warmest regard's

Hi Ed:
You should be hearing from Carolyn Swallow as well. She spoke with the contacts from our MW Region and Carolyn has agreed to pay your honorarium fee of $2500. (She mentioned that was what the two of you agreed on?).
Scott Foresman will pay for your airfare and other related expenses. You may submit those receipts to my attention here in Glenview, and I'll be sure you are reimbursed.

Sorry for any inconvenience this may have caused you. As we discussed before, if this type of situation should come up again, please be sure to contact me and I'll be able to confirm sponsorship, etc.

Take care!
Lisa

Thanks Ed. I have let Terry know the dates you'll be there and it could be that you'll be asked to attend a dinner, or a customer breakfast and/or lunch.

I'll pass on details as I hear back.

In the meantime, I will let our Exhibits are know your arrival and departure dates so they can book your hotel room. I'll also arrange your flights, so if you have approximate times you'd like to arrive/depart, just let me know and I'll get that done.

Thanks,

Hi Ed,
Since I did not have the below presentation in my records, I spoke with the MT region and Neil Rivenburg gave me the details that you did present and his region had agreed to pay some expenses. However, Neil did not realize this would count against his contracted day, but he will use it.

In the future, if you would like Scott Foresman to sponsor you at an event, you really should come to me first and I will go out to the region to see if they would like to sponsor. Most of the time, they are very interested.
This way, it's in my records and the region has it on theirs, so no worries about what will be paid or not. If something has not come through me, it is not counted as a day and is much more difficult to "negotiate" after the fact.

This will make sure that you are paid when you are supposed to be paid.
(My

job is to look out for the authors :) Let me know if you have any other questions. Otherwise, as of right now, this will count as a contracted day and the MT region will pay your expenses. I will send out a confirmation to have the paperwork on file and you can send your expenses to me and I will get them to the MT region for payment.

Thanks Ed and have a great weekend.

Leonor Sebastia and other SF representatives (Jana Hamilton) were present. By the way, I hope and trust that SF will reimburse me for part of that airfare. Thanks.

Hi Ed,
I spoke with Dennis Luchin this morning and he assured me that your slot is most important. You will be the Keynote and are most definitely not a "fill-in.". He also mentioned that this is one of the best-run conferences and everyone stays until the very end. They anticipate up to 900 for your presentation.

This conference takes place at the Greenbriar in WV and is a very popular place. Jennifer Susser, the rep in WV will try and find you at IRA and discuss this conference with you. Should you have any additional questions,
let me know.

Thanks Ed.
Lisa

Hi Ed,
Just checking to see if there's a possibility that you could fly out on the 4th, depending on when your conference ends in Portland. I'm not sure what the flights would be, but I could check. This could be a possibility since the actual presentation doesn't take place until the 5th, but starts early at 9am.

Thought I'd cover all bases before going back to the SE.

Thanks Ed,

Hello to all:

Some of you have already indicated that you will be attending IRA next year in San Antonio, Texas. The dates of the conference are May 1 - 5, 2005.

The regions have already begun to inquire about which authors will be attending so that they are able to begin planning their luncheons and dinners with customers.

Please respond back with the following information at your earliest convenience:

- * Do you plan to attend IRA 2005 in San Antonio?
- * If so, will you need a hotel room (please provide arrival and departure dates)
- * Will you be presenting at IRA? Please provide any details currently available.

I am also attaching the November Reading Newsletter for your reading pleasure.

<<November 2004.doc>>

Thanks! See you all at the meeting next week.

Hi Ed:

Earlier today, I sent out an email asking if you plan to attend IRA 2005. I now also have a request for you from the MT Region. They are hoping you will be available to do a customer luncheon on Tuesday, May 3rd, should you
be attending IRA.

Thanks,

Terry: Thanks. Can you tell me what role I will be playing, what you are expecting of me, what I should present on, how long I should be at the conference? etc. Thanks.

<x-flowed>>Ed,

There are several reasons I discontinued my role on the design team and one of them was conflict of interest. I guess I didn't clearly enough consider the advisory board role. Randy is going to be very short handed without you, me, Joe, and maybe Sharon. I just don't want to continue working as much and Voyager was one of the many extra things that I needed to let go.

let's do this as place holders;&nbsp;  Ed and Deb as Co-Directors of the

Okay?<BR> <BR> On another note, I spoke to Randy today about my future work with <BR> Voyager and he said he was hoping to visit with you on Saturday <BR> night.&nbsp; I suggested dismantling the "Design&nbsp; Team" (at least in name) <BR> and reconfiguring it as an "Advisory Board."&nbsp; I think this will give <BR> me (us) more flexibility to continue to work with Voyager without it <BR> causing potential problems with Pearson and Scott Foresman.&nbsp; I have <BR> spoken with Pearson and SF about this and although they don't see it <BR> as a problem (because I'm not an "author" per se) at all, I think <BR> serving on an Advisory Board will be less of an issue than serving as <BR> a Design Team member.&nbsp; I also told Randy that if my continued work <BR> with Voyager would be incidental (infrequent contacts with periodic <BR> meetings in Santa Fe), then I would be glad to contribute my time (no <BR> pay or consultation fee), but if sustained and continuous work is <BR> expected, then we would need to talk about compensation, amount of <BR> time, etc.&nbsp; So, I hope this helps to inform your conversation with <BR> Randy and your own thinking.&nbsp; It looks like Deb's not going to <BR> continue her work with Voyager.&nbsp; My sense is having Joe on board is a <BR> good and significant addition. <x-charset iso-8859-1>Dear Dr. Good:

Scott Foresman would like to talk to you about the possibility of working with you to link DIBELS to Scott Foresman, or perhaps working to create a DIBELS-like assessment system. Would you be available for a) a visit to Glenview, IL; b) a visit in Oregon from Susanne Singleton and me; c) a
